General Press Release Guidelines

1. All Gartner published materials are subject to copyright protection.
2. The word "Gartner" may not appear in the title of your press release or any other promotional material. It is not correct to make any reference to Gartner except in attribution at the end of the press release. For example, "China Outsourcing Summit (event name) is produced by Vision Events®, a Gartner, Inc. (NYSE: IT) company." It is absolutely necessary for legal reasons that our full name and stock ticker appear when Gartner is mentioned in a release.
3. When referring to our events, please avoid using the terms "conference" or "trade show." Vision Events is the leading producer of business-focused channel and end user events. We encourage you to include the following information "About Vision Events" and "About Gartner, Inc." in your press release. However, the "About Gartner" statement may only be used in conjunction with the Vision Events descriptor paragraph and not as a standalone paragraph in your news release. "About Gartner" may not be used in an awards announcement press release.
4. We must approve any use of the Gartner, China Outsourcing Summit or Vision Events names in releases and all quotes that you would like to attribute to us. Please send a draft of your release prior to sending to Kimberly.wheeler@gartner.com and Karen.Topp@gartner.com so that we can review your PR for accuracy. Estimated turnaround for approvals is 24-48 hours.

Send draft releases to: kimberly.wheeler@gartner.com and Karen.topp@gartner.com
