

Worksoft receives "Risk Management Award" in China Outsourcing Summit

Beijing, China --- December 12, 2005 --- Worksoft Creative Software Technology Ltd, a leading IT outsourcing company in China, today announced that Worksoft has won the "Risk Management Award" at China Outsourcing Summit, the largest outsourcing event held in China to date. The award recognizes visionaries and organizations that use resources in an innovative and creative manner to manage outsourcing risks at all levels.

Chris Chen, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Worksoft said, "We believe this international award is a reiteration of the values that our customers expect from Worksoft. We have been dedicated to give our customers the predictability and The Power to Focus™."

"As the next big shore in offshore outsourcing strategies, China offers a low cost of labor and increasingly skilled workforce. There are literally thousands of ITO and BPO companies, yet outsourcing to China is a relatively unexplored territory for most businesses," said Philip McKay, Vision Events group vice president and general manager. "That is why Vision Events is bringing 120 chief information officers and senior sourcing executives to China to meet first-hand with Chinese IT firms as well as Chinese government officials."

China's unparalleled wealth of highly skilled labor and solid infrastructure place it atop most short lists for outsourcing engagements. David Chen, Chief Operation Officer of Worksoft, said "Most global businesses are slow in reaping the benefits China has to offer due the uncertainty in managing risks in this multi-sourcing environment. Worksoft is striving to minimize the risks associated with outsourcing to China, hence further driving down costs and enhancing customer values."
